Telecommunication services for your business

- high connection stability, capacity and security
- supportive technical support and helpdesk
- packages of upgraded services for efficient work with the Internet

Be truly connected

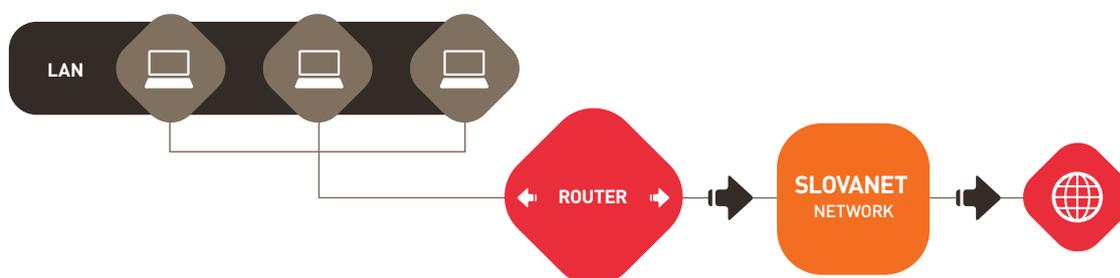

The Internet is a standard part of a modern company's operation and the essential tool for everyday work. When choosing a connection emphasis is usually not only on price but more often outstanding connection quality and supplementary services are becoming increasingly important. The sudden breakdown of e-mail or a several-hour breakdown of an on-line ordering system is an inconceivable problem for a company. Stability of Internet connection and alert maintenance services represent the added value of the internet:LINK service.
