Wi-Fi connection access portal

aero:LINK SPOT is a Wi-Fi add-on, and a modern interface for communicating with customers.

Providing wireless Internet access is now considered a basic service for customers. Wi-Fi technology is most commonly used for this purpose and is widespread on all smartphones and tablets. However, quality wireless systems able to meet high connectivity demands in public spaces require relatively large investments. A Wi-Fi access portal delivers a more attractive connection solution while giving the operator a potential way to cover not only its investment costs, but also a lot of opportunities for further appreciation.

The Wi-Fi access portal increases the attractiveness of the connection and provides the opportunity to cover not only investment costs, but also a wide range of further benefits.

For who is the portal intended?

- shopping centres
- retail chains
- banks
- restaurants and cafés
- hotels
- stadiums and arenas
- hospitals
- busy streets and public areas

How exactly does it work?

The service is operated from a cloud environment and customers access the solution using an administration interface accessible from anywhere using the Internet. No additional hardware or software is needed to operate the solution. The service only requires a simple monthly payment.
